
FreeHand 10 Due in May!

Macromedia has let it be known that FreeHand 10 will arrive in May –one of the first major 3rd party applications to be Carbonized for Apple’s OS X. Macromedia has been working with Apple for two years on the project and says version 10 also addresses workflow changes that have come about in the workplace –namely that some designers actually design for the Web FIRST and then convert the job for print. (Great Balls of Fire, No!?!)

How the Other Half Lives

Last Thursday Microsoft notified users that a flaw in Internet Explorer 5.0.1 and 5.5 for Windows could allow an attacker to run a program that “would be capable of taking any action that the user himself could take on his machine, including adding, changing or deleting data, communicating with Web sites or reformatting the hard drive.”
This does not affect your Mac!
