Cable vs. DSL

People are always asking me about Internet Service Providers. For the last long while I have recommended cable over DSL. Although DSL offer a dedicated service as opposed to cable's shared resources, this detriment was easily overcome by its greater speed and lower price. Recently however, the equation has altered. DSL now offers faster download speeds than cable along with –in some cases– better pricing. In addition, the customer service at Shaw has suffered badly since the takeover of Videon. If you have been looking for an alternative to your cable internet service, there now is one.
