

Mac OS X 10.2.8 – Again

Apple has cleaned up two problems with the recently released –and pulled– Mac OS X 10.2.8 update and has re-released it. This time there is also a special version for G5 computers. The new release fixes a problem with Ethernet on older PowerMac G4s and with battery life reporting on PowerBook computers. OS X 10.2.8 fixes a wide variety of bugs and performance issues and installs security patches not available separately. Users can update from the software update mechanism in System Preferences or download stand-alone or combo updaters.
